

November 7th 2010 – Becoming who you are meant to be

Introduction

For too long many of us have tried to become someone we are not. We have felt the need to fit into a specific mould but we realise we just can't do it!

God wants so that I can be free to be me, and you can be free to be you.

John 3:30 – John The Baptist Prayer was about the new expression of the Kingdom arising and signalled a shift hence the I must become less, and he must become greater.

God had less of us and he didn't like it that is why he created us.

Why is it so important?

On two different levels:

1. Individual
 - Should make us enjoy life more and allow for freedom
 - Also allows us to win battles (1 Samuel 17:38-40)
2. Corporate
 - For the church to be fully who she is called to be, everyone needs to bring their flavour
 - Each have a part to play (1 Corinthians 12:12-30)

How do we continue to be who we are really are:

A – Acknowledge who you are

B – Become who you really are

C – No longer compare yourself to others

D – Pursue the dreams and desires that are in your heart

No longer resist who you are, embrace who you are
